YESTERDAY'S GAMES

Quakers Beat Braves.

Boston, June 23.—Philadelphia batted James' delivery to all parts of the field today and Boston was defeated 2 to 8. Many of the visitors' drives went for extra bases. Cravath getting two doubles, a home run and a single in five times at bat. Luderus and Lobert also batted hard as did Marville for Boston. The local's diminutive shortstop and Pickett furnished the fielding features.

Split Even.

New York, June 23.—New York and Brooklyn split even today on a double header, Brooklyn winning the first game which was a ten-inning affair, 4 to 2, while the Giants won the second game easily 5 to 1. The first game was a tight pitchers' battle between Ragan and Fromme. Brooklyn led 2 to 1 in the ninth inning when Doyle tied the score with a home run into the right field fence. With Crandall pitching for New York, Brooklyn scored two runs when Stengel's base on balls was followed by Wheat's home run into the right field stand.

TRAGEDY AT CELEBRATION

Rejected Italian Lover Kills Bride and One Who Tried to Protect Her—Fatally Injures Three Other Guests.

Philadelphia, June 24.—A rejected suitor shot and killed a young bride and a man who attempted to save her last night, while three others, one woman and two men, were probably fatally injured at a wedding celebration in the northern part of the city. The dead are Mrs. Nicholas Bozelle, 18 years old, and Vincent Spirit of Lansdowne, Pa. Selice Spirit was stabbed near the heart; an unidentified woman, about 25 years old, shot through the breast. Angelo Goecino, who is accused of doing the shooting, was slashed about the throat. None of the wounded is expected to recover. Mrs. Bozelle was married five months ago upon her arrival here from Italy to the man who was her childhood sweetheart. But during his absence in this country she had been courted by Goecino, whose attention she is said to have spurned. Goecino, it is alleged, followed her to America, but did not cause her any annoyance until last night when he appeared at the celebration. As he entered the room where the merry-making was in progress, it is alleged Goecino opened fire at the young bride. Spirit sprang to her assistance and received a bullet in the heart. When Goecino had emptied she demands $150,000. For his alleged breach of contract for failing to supply her with money for her living expenses she asks $75,000 additional.

Three years ago, when she was 18 and a graduate of St. Bridge's academy in this city, Miss Mae A. Sullivan, called by her friends "the prettiest girl in New York," met young Hoe, heir to a large estate. It was a case of love at first sight with both of them, he confesses. Her girlish charms and beautiful face, his gallant conduct and lavish expenditure of money combined to make them supremely happy with each other.

"He told me that he loved me and respected me more than all else in the world, and that he would marry me," she asserts, "and I believed him. I trusted him so completely that I was willing to become estranged from my family for his sake. He knew I was an orphan, and now I believe he took advantage of that fact."

Miss Sullivan is the daughter of Patrick H. Sullivan, deceased, former registrar of deeds in this city. She was brought up in luxury, and after the death of her parents made her home with an uncle. She was ambitious for a good education and a musical career.

Just after her graduation from school, she says, Hoe obtained an introduction and began to lavish presents upon her. He met her in October, 1910, and within two months had given her an automobile and over $10,000 in jewels and other gifts.

"He told me he was single and showed me great attention, love and affection," is the way Miss Sullivan puts it. "He proposed that I take an apartment with two girl friends, and I agreed to do so. For about three months we had a magnificent apartment in Seventh avenue. I afterward moved to several other places. My last residence was 420 Riverside drive. All this time I believed implicitly that Mr. Hoe was a single man and able to carry out his promise of marriage as soon as he could."

"It was not until February, 1912, that I learned that Mr. Hoe was already married and living with his wife and children. He admitted this to me, asked my forgiveness and agreed to support me for life. Prior to that time he had been supporting me at the rate of about $50,000 a year. He told me he got $8,000,000 from his father."

"I made the best of the situation. From that time on our relations were subsistent. I continued to take money when I could get it. Finally he failed to keep even his promise to support me, and I reluctantly instructed my attorney to draw up papers for court action."

"The same dispatch declares that Italy's crop will probably be 182,719,000 bushels, or 110.9 per cent, while the crop of India will reach 358,316,000, a slight decrease from last year, and Japan will produce approximately 27,029,000 bushels of 105.2 per cent. Less acreage is devoted this year to the cultivation of the sugar beet in both Belgium and France. The less acreage is made up, however, by increase areas planted in Denmark and Hungary."

RECEIVE OFFICERS OF ARGENTINE SHIP

Washington, June 24.—All the preparations were completed early today for the reception of the officers and cadets of the Argentine naval training ship Sarmiento which arrived from Philadelphia on a trip of inspection. Officers from the navy department awaited their arrival at the Union station, and arrangements had been made for their visit to the Washington navy yard and to other points of interest.

The visitors have gone through the great steel mills of Pennsylvania and are enthusiastic over their reception in this country. They probably will be received by President Wilson before their departure for New York.

TESTING STEEL WITH THE CINEMATOPH

An application of the cinematograph to show the crystalline changes that take place during the pulling of a test piece in the testing machine, arranged by a firm at Sheffield and its engineer, consists of a specially constructed testing machine to which is affixed a microscope connected with a camera, so that not only may the whole of the changes that take place be noted, but photographs may be taken any time during the process. The testing machine is worked hydraulically and the readings are taken by a pressure gauge. The hydraulic power is derived from a new accumulator worked by a hand pump. The whole apparatus—including the pump, testing machine and accumulator—is accommodated on a bench measuring six feet by three feet, and although the machine itself is only a little over one foot long, a test piece requiring twenty-five tons to rupture may be broken with ease.—London Times.
